Suppose we lazily slice up the SUM series pizza. How many pieces can we make with just a few slices? What if we had a watermelon? Together we will try to answer this problem and explore some of the beautiful geometry behind it. No background will be assumed and this talk should be accessible to all undergraduates. If there’s time we can try to slice some four-dimensional cake.